

CONDITIONS AND PROCEDURE FOR PUBLICATIONS APPRECIATION

The «Vestnik of Kostroma State University» journal appreciates original investigations on all natural, humanitarian and social sciences basic fields. The editorial board reserves the right to distribute articles to the journal main headings, each of which is of a wide knowledge stratum: either pedagogy, or psychology, or linguistics, or philosophy, or biology, etc. One may apply via e-mail any day all year long, and nothing but attaching an article, some personal information and any kind of assertion, on the part of the reputable figures of science the author is on contact with, that the article is worth consideration (so-called outer peer review), is required; the article will be published as soon as its turn comes upon, unless the so-called inner peer review rejects it.

The journal's editorial board willingly appreciate articles exhibiting a high degree of scientific novelty, theoretical and practical significance. One's own research scientific results must be stated in the article. Collaborators of scientific institutions; those who are on their creative work path either enshrined into their local departments at educational institutions they are representatives of or perfectly independent; graduates of higher education institutions can be the authors.

To be appreciated for publication, a paper must certainly meet the requirements of text preparation. The materials not in accordance with the requirements are automatically repealed. The most respectful experts and teachers who have positions at Kostroma State University are those who have right of final decision with respect to an article, whether to publish it in the university bulletin or not to publish; each expert is responsible for its field of scientific knowledge.

Nevertheless, in case the author significantly revise the paper and improves it within the bounds of the strict recommendations received from the editorial board, the special meeting of the board will consider issuing the newly designed version in one of the following volumes. Soon after the issue release, the journal articles can be found on the Russian Electronic Library site (www.elibrary.ru), with the summary being free of charge, and the full texts being available via subscription; thus, each author is involved into the so-called Russian Science Citation Index system. Furthermore, all issues since 2006 are placed on the official site of the University, each issue as a .pdf file. The two-party treaty (Kostroma State University and Russian Electronic Library) guaranties for the author that his (her) paper is available at the global network.

The scientific supervisor's conclusion is compulsory for a postgraduate.